Guilds in CWHR – Several software applications for grouping wildlife species by their shared response to changes in CWHR stages and elements. These programs may serve as a useful complement to the CWHR System for visualizing and quantifying patterns explaining how changes in habitat structure impact multiple species.

Example of graphical user interface for entering data

Example output demonstrating numbers of species belonging to different habitat response guilds in Sierran mixed conifer.